Course Outline

Semester Dates: May 12, 2014 – June 13, 2014

Please note that when a holiday falls during the week, your class will be rescheduled for the Friday of that week. Students are required to make arrangements to be present at the rescheduled class.

Facilitator: Tara Sylvester, BA, MA (Candidate)

Email: Tara.Sylvester@CSC-SCC.GC.CA

Class Time: 5:30 PM – 9:30 PM (Mon/Wed)

Room: 805-109

Credit: 3

Prerequisite: CRIM 118, CRIM 185

Note: It is the student's responsibility to be familiar with the information contained in the Course Outline and to clarify any areas of concern with the facilitator.

Course Description:

This course will examine theories, current issues and practices, and perspectives on community corrections and rehabilitation in today's society. Principles of community corrections, diversion, and sentencing; probation; caseloads and rehabilitation programs; prisoner re-entry; and special issues in community corrections will be explored in detail. Particular focus on certain identifiable groups of special needs offenders for whom community programs may be appropriate will be covered as well. Prerequisite: CRIM 185

Learning Outcomes:

As a result of active participation in these sessions, a student can expect to:

- Discuss the history and development of community-based corrections in Canada.
- Describe the community correction system in Canada, the role and functions of its various components, and the relevant legislations governing such bodies.
- Compare and contrast between prison and community-based corrections.
- Explain community correction risk-assessment procedures.
- Differentiate between community-based residential and non-residential intermediate sanctions.
- Explain parole management, case planning, and re-entry procedures.
- Critically assess the various issues and trends in community corrections within the Canadian context.

Course Format:

This course uses a variety of teaching/learning methods including discussion, personal reflection, experiential exercises, student presentations, role-plays, group activities and especially case studies. Our faculty aims to create a learning environment where the learner is actively engaged in inquiry, critical thinking and problem solving. The classroom provides you with a place where you can learn with and from others in a cooperative and collaborative manner.

You are expected to take a very active part in class discussions and take responsibility for your own learning. Be a positive and co-operative team member. Columbia College uses a facilitation model of instruction where the facilitator's role is to facilitate your learning. The expectation is that you will come to class prepared with pre-class homework completed. Your facilitator will engage you in activities that are based on your completed homework and readings. Your enthusiastic and positive approach in the classroom will create an atmosphere that will help every student develop the knowledge, skills and attitudes that are needed for success.

How you conduct yourself in our classes will, to a large extent, mirror your conduct in society and your future work site. For example, if you have a tendency to ask questions, challenge the ideas of others in a respectful manner, draw out the best from your colleagues, and encourage both group development and task accomplishment in this class, it is likely you will do the same at work. A high level of student involvement and developing professionalism is expected in the classroom as you work towards your goal.

Being late is also considered unacceptable as it interferes with the learning opportunities of others. Unavoidable absences or lateness must be reported to the course facilitator in advance. Please refer to Columbia College's Attendance Policy and Regulations (ADM-P151) for detailed information on Attendance Requirements.

Academic Integrity:

Academic dishonesty is a serious offence and can result in suspension or expulsion from Columbia College.
